

Crooked Fingers – Angelina

Capot 4.

Part A

A musical staff with five lines labeled E, B, G, D, A from top to bottom. The staff is divided into eight measures by vertical bar lines. The chords in each measure are: G, C, G, G, G, C, G, G.

Part B

A musical staff with five lines labeled E, B, G, D, A from top to bottom. The staff is divided into eight measures by vertical bar lines. The chords in each measure are: D, D, G, G, D, D, G, G.

Part C

A musical staff with five lines labeled E, B, G, D, A from top to bottom. The staff is divided into eight measures by vertical bar lines. The chords in each measure are: C, G, C, G, C, G, D, D.

Verse B

A musical staff with five lines labeled E, B, G, D, A from top to bottom. The staff is divided into four measures by vertical bar lines. The chords in each measure are: G, D,C, G, G.

Angelina, out of reach there's no reason now for you to run
Angelina, there's no meaning to all the bad things that were done

There's just a meanness that's creeping
as you lie there sleeping
that's sneaking around in the dark.

So in the morning you'll wake
to a pounding that could break
your weak brittle world all apart.

There's no reason there for you to know
There ain't no reason why they always walk away
No good reason they seize you, disease you, and leave you undone
So Angelina don't think for one moment you've done something wrong

Angelina, as you weep in your sleep there's an ivory glow
And Angelina, you can choose win or lose where your new heart will go

There will be empty spaces
where holes fill the places that your sad eyes once used to see.
And in the mirror you trace
lines you cannot erase;
your life that you used to lead.

There are good things now coming your way
And the good things that come now are gonna stay
And the good things that stay will all shine as you walk in the sun
Oh Angelina what you think is over has only begun.

Angelina what you think is over has only begun.